greatly retarded by lack of sufficient moisture.

QUIHI NOTES

Blessed is the man that walketh not in the counsel of the ungodly, nor standeth in the way of the sinners, nor sitteth in the seat of the scornful. But his delight is in the law of the Lord. Ps. 1:1.

The blessedness of man, his happiness, peace, temporal and eternal welfare, is the principal object of God's actions and relations with man. No other being is more sincere, capable and patient about that.
He has left no stone unturned to effect all that. Daily and nightly He puts a powerful and superb apparatus in motion, in sky and sea and land, for that very purpose. He has equipped man with every gift and facility to act and react, to coordinate himself and co-operate with God and utilize every phase and feature of His cornucopia. His abundant and super-abundance of His everflowing and evergrowing and multiplying daily donations and benefactions to his best advantage. The law, His holy will, God has revealed plainly and concretely for man's conduct and regulation in regard to God and fellow-man, a code that fits for all times and conditions and fundamental aspects towards such blessedness. And above all, He has sacrificed His only-begotten Son to make up for all possible defects, to guide and safeguard and guarantee the blissful intentions of God, both here and beyond. What a deep and unfathomable love! Does man accept it humbly and gratefully, saying often and sincerely, Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all His benefits?

Many do it. Uncounted others refuse it. Influenced by a weak heart, by false reasoning and the subtle undermining efforts of satanic powers, they have invented various ways of subverting and frustrating the ways of God towards blessedness.
Three are mentioned in our text. Applicable then and today: The counsel of the ungodly, the principles and opinions and advice of those who set God aside, worshipping some fetish of their own choice. By what right and authority? Wise, is it? Blessedness assured thereby? "Unbelief is blind", says Milton. He knew both sides.

The "way of the sinner" is the other mode of destroying blessedness. The fellows that "sanction vice and hunt decorum down"; sowing "wild oats that maketh a bad autumn crop", often "dropping down the ladder (of morality) rung by rung." They may be glitter and glamour, but "the trail of the serpent is over them all." They may be swaggers and bluster, noise and bluff, blessedness is not found on that "way".

And there is the "seat of the scornful", the haughty, the contemptuous, that pass by God as He were a wall, a nuisance, a despicable monster, deserving but "a dismal universal hiss". The nose there is often up in the air, the feet in deep mud.
How dare they get by with their contempt for God's person, will and way? An old saying, "If I had rather be a dog and bay the moon than such a Roman". Theirs may be grandeur and glory, blessedness is not their lot.

And the siren call comes from all three directions. Many listen and fall for it. The "roaring lion" or the so-called "angel of light", the universal deceiver, is busy day by day, destroying the "delight in the law of the Lord", robbing man of the only blessing in this vale of tears.
Be on your guard, the psalmist means to advise.

A week of weddings in the annals of Quihi history, we had last week.
On October the 2nd, Stanley Saat-hoff, son of Mr. W. J. Saathoff and his sainted wife, led Miss Elsie Nietenhoefer, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nietenhoefer, to the altar for nuptial blessings. With the well-known wedding march, played by our pianist, the bridegroom approached with Miss Lucille Boehle;

GRADUATES AND EX-STUDENTS OF HONDO HIGH SCHOOL TO HAVE HOMECOMING

Several hundred invitations will be sent out in the next week or so to graduates of Hondo High School reminding them of the homecoming celebration to be held at the school Monday, November 11, 1940. There are as many more ex-students to whom it is impossible to send personal invitations, but this notice is to be considered as a cordial welcome to them to also attend the homecoming festivities. Alumni members are also requested to pass the word around to former students to be among the large crowd expected to be present.

Plans for the program are tentative. However, Dr. O. B. Taylor, President of the H. H. S. Alumni Association, and Miss Anne Davis, Secretary, met with Supt. J. Gordon Barry Tuesday of this week and a general outline for the day's activities was made. So far, the program will be as follows: An assembly of the graduates and ex-students about 10 o'clock A. M. in the school auditorium for a program of songs, talks by former students, etc., details of which will be announced later.
Following this assembly, a business meeting of the Alumni Association will be held for the purpose of electing new officers, and other matters that may come up for consideration.
The assembly will be dismissed in plenty of time so that class reunions may be held at private homes, with buffet luncheons, picnics, or whatever entertainment may be planned by each class.

The bride was escorted by Mr. Aaron Boehle. With the proper musical accompaniment the rings were exchanged as a token of plighted troth.
And again under festive strains the bridal couple left the thronged and nicely decorated church, felicitated by their relatives and friends. May the blessings of the Lord brighten their future. . . .

The next day brought the second wedding, that of Herbert Moehring, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Moehring, who had chosen for his lifemate, Lillian, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Hartman. Miss Glenrose Brucks with the bridegroom preceded the bride who was presented by Wesley Moehring, while the strains of the wedding march filled the beautifully ornamented building.
The exchange of rings took place while a fine musical selection impressed the ceremony. Again the seats were filled to overflowing and many friends conveyed their best wishes to both, when, under the sound of the recessional they had reached the vestibule. A joyous repast at the bridal home was offered to a number of intimate relatives.
The wedding trip covered the northern section of the state. The future home will be at Hondo. And may the Lord enter with them and remain with all His mercy. . . .

Our Community Social was quite a success, and we again wish to thank all those heartily who in one way or another have helped to make that evening great and memorable in the history of the parish. . . .

Mrs. Emil Graff was confined during the time when others rejoiced.
Sorry. But her condition has shown a decided improvement, we are glad to report. . . .

Announcements for October 13.
Day of our Mission Festival. Rev.
F. A. Bracher of Fredericksburg will preach the German sermon at 10, and the English at 7:45 P. M. Sunday school and Bible class at 9 A. M.
We should be present for this great occasion with all our household and worship the Lord in unison. Come and be welcome. —C. W.

At 2:30 P. M. Monday afternoon, the Hondo Owls, so far undefeated this season, will play the Del Rio Wildcats, powerful and long-time rivals of the Owls. As Nov. 11 is a holiday and there are no other football games planned for that day in this district, a record crowd of football fans is expected to attend.
The game is to be held on Barry Field where the capacious east and west bleachers will accommodate all who attend. Tickets for the game will go on sale within the next few weeks.

The grand finale to a full day's program will be the big dance that night in the new high school gymnasium. A hardwood floor of large dimensions and music by Mack Rogers will make the dancing a pleasure for all. Admission will be charged the dancers, and a small fee will be charged those who wish to occupy the bleachers to watch the dancers, hear the music and hobnob with old friends. Funds derived from the dance will be used to defray cost of the orchestra and incidental expenses and for the purchase of needed equipment for the gymnasium.

A special homecoming edition of The Hondo Anvil Herald is being planned for the Friday preceding the Homecoming, which will be November 8th. Many old pictures of former classes, graduates, ex-students football teams, baseball teams, etc., are to be featured in this edition, as

ST. PAUL'S LUTHERAN CHURCH

Announcement for Sunday, October 13: Sunday school at 9:30 o'- clock.

There will be no services, as the Pastor has accepted an invitation to serve as speaker for a mission festival at Sinton. . . .

The members of the St. Paul's Lutheran Church choir arranged an agreeable birthday surprise for their Pastor late Wednesday evening, following the regular singing session.
Intent on taking the Pastor unaware the group gathered before the parsonage secretly. Aroused by strange noises and whisperings he came to the door to investigate. His appearance at the door was the signal for the unloosening of an overwhelming barrage of "Happy Birthdays".

The happy social hour which followed was climaxed with a delicious repast of cake and refreshments.
Those present were: Mr. and Mrs.
Ben Oefinger, Guido and Paul Richter, F. Senne and wife, Edg. Stiegler, Mrs. L. Stiegler, Ernest Boehle, Mr. and Mrs. W. McCray, Mr. and Mrs.
Ernest Brucks, Geo. Brucks, Mrs.
Alfred Brucks, Mrs. Minnie Brucks, daughter, F. Hollmig and wife, Amanda Haass and Mrs. Earl Starnes. . . .

Members of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, and others in the community are kindly requested to participate in a novel plan to raise money for the Lutheran Orphanage and Old Folks Home at Round Rock, Texas.

You may help this charitable institution by saving the labels of Camay soap, Ivory Flakes and Crisco and depositing them in the special boxes provided at the Red & White, Grell's Grocery and Leinweber's Grocery stores. The Proctor and Gamble Company will redeem these wrappers at from one-half to two cents each and the check will be made payable to the Lutheran Orphanage.

Kindly make deposit of your wrappers before December 2, 1940.

COMMISSIONERS' COURT IN CALL MEETING

On the call of County Judge Arthur H. Rothe, the Commissioners' Court met at 1:30 P. M. Monday, October 7, with the County Judge, and the Commissioners of Precinct Nos. 1, 2 and 4 present. The following business was transacted:

The Court was called for a hearing on the application for a change in the location of the public road north of Rio Medina, but due to a clerical error as to the date of the beginning of the regular October term of the Commissioners' Court, the Court voted unanimously to defer the hearing until the regular date of the opening of the October term which is October 14th.

The Court received the bid of the Southern Steel Company for steel plate doors for vaults in the courthouse for the sum of $373.50 with freight allowed to Hondo. After due consideration, the Court voted unanimously to accept the bid and the architect was instructed to notify the Company of the acceptance of their bid.

Mr. Charles Krenmueller of Dun-lay is now acting as purchasing agent for the sponsors of the courthouse project, having been appointed by the Court at this meeting.

ATTENTION, TAXPAYERS

Under a recent law affecting the payment of taxes, those paying all their taxes (including poll-taxes) will receive a discount of three per cent on the state ad valorem portion of their taxes if paid in October; 2 per cent if paid in November, and 1 per cent in December. After December 31st, the rate will be net.

The law providing for the payment of one-half of the tax in October and November and the other half by the following June is still in force and may be taken advantage of by those preferring that to the other plan.

DUMB BUT NOT DEAF

By Clayton Rand

A country editor who had been in the business for 45 years tells me he has had to retire because he became stone deaf.

He says you don't have to have any particular literary skill or talent to be a country editor, but unless you can hear what's going on around you, you can't publish a readable newspaper.
You can be dumb and get by,
but not deaf.

The Scribe knows of at least one half-deaf country editor who was almost shot because he got mixed up on two items a farmer gave him for publication. One was a description of a heifer that had strayed from his place, the other about the pretty school teacher who had just arrived in the community.

THE UNRECORDED MORTGAGE

A city's bonded indebtedness is an unrecorded mortgage on its homes and is a real "enemy of value" which should no longer be disregarded, writes Malcolm Shermer, Atlantic City appraiser. He points out that the bonded debt in many cities has passed the stage of being a financial burden and has become a menace to investment in, and marketability of property. He says that candid reference in appraisal reports to property depreciation due to large bonded debt should be made in order that people may be aware of the need to check prevalent increases in such debt.

If a city's bonded debt is one-third of the total assessed taxable real estate in the city, a man buying a house with an assessed value of $3,000, is actually assuming a portion of the city's debt equal to one-third of that property's assessed value. In other words, there is a $1,000 unrecorded mortgage against his place. The average citizen does not realize the gravity of this situation.

The entrance of the Federal government into the electric generating business offers an excellent example of how communities are led into increasing the unrecorded mortgage.
Under the guise of giving local communities cheap power, developed from plants subsidized and built with national tax funds, local citizens are urged to bond themselves for distributing systems to utilize such power in competition with existing private enterprise.

Communities that do this, do three things:

First, they promote national and local socialization of one line of industry.

Second, they destroy or cripple an important local tax-paying electric industry.

Third, they increase the tax mortgage on every piece of property in the community, including their homes and incomes and the very food they eat.

It's costly business voting a municipality, the state or the Federal government into business (mortgaging your future) at the expense of tax-paying private enterprise.—Industrial News Review.

"Is the course of the United States to be that of insuring only that the united totalitarian powers shall not actually invade its shores, leaving them free to rule everywhere else in the world that there is not sufficient force to prevent them?" Thus inquires Peter Molyneux in his Texas Weekly. In posing this question he plummets the line of cleavage that is dividing our country into two schools of thought. Being an adherent to Woodrow Wilson's visionary League of Nations, by which Wilson hoped to make himself some sort of world dictator, it is natural for him to hold the fetish that America should be the rest of the world's keeper whether it wants to be kept or not. With all due sympathy for a die-hard, one must marvel at the thought processes of men who, having once seen the futility of our effort to "make the world safe for democracy", now regard it as our duty to "make it unsafe for totalitarians", this, too, in the presence of a too well founded doubt of our ability to prevent the same totalitarian powers from "actually invading our shores". Let's make America safe for her homefolks before hunting trouble elsewhere.

Hondo Owls Claw Deep Into Victory Over Wildcats

THIRD GRADE STUDENTS TO MAKE TERRARIUM

From The Owl.

Monday morning the third grade pupils found their plants had grown quite a bit over the week-end. The narcissus bulbs that were planted Sept. 20 are peeping out to light. Those planted on Oct. 2 have a good root growth started, but there is no sign of top growth. The potato that was planted in water has a mass of roots, also, and has just started the leaf growth. The class has learned the purpose of the roots of plants.

The plants in the terrarium are growing fast. The class has just learned what a terrarium is and has made a nice one for the room. It is a garden in a glass room. The moss, fern, and other little plants were planted in a small amount of soil in the bowl. The garden was planted, watered, and a glass cover was put over the bowl. It needs very little water. The third grade class enjoys watching the garden grow.

Cleo, the goldfish, is always glad to get his food Monday morning as he does not get to eat over the week-end.

STUDENTS SEE BIRDIE FLY

From The Owl.

Mr. Congdon, the photographer who has taken the school pictures for many consecutive years, returned Monday, October 7th, to take photographs of all the grades, school clubs and organizations, and individual pictures of the football players and Pep Squad leaders. The pictures were developed and orders were taken. The photographs are twenty-five cents apiece and books may be obtained for one dollar, including seven pictures.

Orders for these pictures will again be taken in the Spring when Mr. Congdon returns to take the photographs of the Seniors in their caps and gowns.

H. E. Department Receives New Convenience

From The Owl.

The Homemaking students are jubilant this week over the addition of a hot water heater to the equipment of the department. The girls wish to thank the school officials for this important piece of equipment.

The installation of the hot water heater will enable the girls to have more efficient laboratory work and will eliminate the work of heating water and caring for the water kettles. The heater will be particularly useful when banquets and socials are held in the Homemaking Department, greatly simplifying and shortening the cleaning up processes.

Owls See Aggie-Tulsa Game

From THE OWL.

The Hondo Owls' football squad toured to San Antonio where they saw the Texas Aggies and the Tulsa Golden Hurricanes game.

Each year the Owls are taken to see certain college games, which give them hints on their own ability to play better football. The Owls had the pleasure to see one of the ex-graduates of Hondo High do his stuff with the Aggies when they saw Joe (Grandpa) Rothe return a punt sixty yards to set up a touchdown. Not all the Owl squad were able to go.

During the game Coach Bridges pointed out to the boys different things about the game that may help them in future games.

The boys who made the trip that are on the first string are: G. H. Finger, Joe Embrey, James Weynand, Bennie Mitchell, C. C. Dawson, Kenneth Danie, Stanley Holmig and John Henry Graff.

NEW TOOLS RECEIVED FOR AGRICULTURE BOYS

From The Owl.

This year the Ag. Dept. has received a number of new tools for their use this year. The tools are two hundred and eighty in all. The total amount of the tools has not yet been ascertained. From THE OWL.

The Carrizo Springs Wildcats were defeated by the Hondo Owls Friday night 18-0, in Carrizo Springs. The Owls started fast when the game opened, making two first downs on running plays and then taking to the air. Embrey threw a pass to Hartung for the first touchdown. Then again in the first quarter after making a first down by passing, Hartung snared a pass from the arm of Embrey which netted another touchdown for the Owls.

Again in the second quarter after trying running plays and not gaining any ground, a pass to Finger placed the ball on the four yard line, from where Embrey went across for the third touchdown of the game. Two of the extra points were blocked and the third one was wild.

The only outstanding feature of the Wildcats was their defensive play which held the Owls to four first downs on running plays but the Owls strung out their passing attack to make eleven first downs to the Wildcats' seven.

The Owls did not look like they did in the previous games on their running attack, but when they took to the air the Owls showed what they had developed in practice. The team has some boys who can catch that pigskin and also throw it.

OWLS TO MEET MAVERICKS IN TOUGH GAME

From The Owl.

Friday night the Hondo Owls will journey to Pearsall where they will meet the Mavericks. When the Mavericks defeated the Devine Warhorses by a score of 9-0 the Owls expected an easy game, but when they defeated the Uvalde team 32-7, the Owls now have one of the hardest games of the season ahead of them. The Pearsall teams of the past have been noted for their fight and in order to beat the Mavericks this year the Owls will have to show plenty of fight and hustle, which they have shown in the previous games of this season.

NESTER-SALZMAN NUPTIALS

Miss Olivia Salzman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Salzman of LaCoste, and Harold Nester, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Nester of D'Hanis, were united in marriage Thursday morning, September 26, 1940, at 9:30 o'clock in St. Mary's Church here. Reverend Joseph Schwallier performed the ceremony and officiated at the nuptial high mass. During the ceremony, R. A. Biediger sang the offertory, "Ave Maria," accompanied by the "Ave Maria" at the organ.

The bride, who entered the church in the arm of her brother, Raymond Salzman, was lovely in a navy blue gown, with matching accessories. She carried a shower bouquet of white asters.

Miss Janie Salzman, sister of the bride, and Milton Salzman, the bride's brother, were the only attendants. Miss Janie Salzman was dressed in a navy blue dress with matching accessories and pink asters formed her bouquet.

'Tis Mother love that always understands
'Tis Mother's voice that speaks tenderly And Mother caresses with loving hands.

So dear Lord, on this Mother's Day I'm thankful most, for my Mother—Mother, with her wonderful Mother love A love, that can be excelled by no other!

Today, America depends on the Telephone

"One, if by land, and two, if by sea."

Waiting on the outskirts of Charlestown, Massachusetts, Paul Revere fixed his eyes on the moonlit tower of the Old North Church. Suddenly the light of a lantern pierced the darkness . . . then another. The white road echoed the pound of galloping hoofs as the midnight rider called the sleeping countryside to arms.

One hundred years later, in an attic only a few miles from the starting point of history's most famous ride, Alexander Graham Bell gave the nation a faster, better method of communication—the telephone.

Today America needs no midnight rides like Paul Revere's. For this country now is protected by a vast telephone system owned by more than 600,000 American people, employing nearly 300,000 skilled men and women, and used by Americans from coast to coast.

In emergencies today, Americans turn to the telephone, knowing they will receive fast, dependable service—a telephone service backed by the nation-wide resources of the Bell System.

ABOUT ADVERTISING

Newspaper advertising is merely the salesman that talks to more prospects than any other salesman can.

No merchant would think of employing his star salesman on the floor hit and miss—a day now and a day next month, giving him a job whenever he happened to feel in the mood. Every merchant wants his star salesman on the job regularly.

Smart merchants, who know how to make advertising pay, keep their advertising, which talks to more prospects than all their salesmen put together, many times over, on the job regularly.

An advertisement in The Anvil Herald reaches more people than any other advertising you can employ.

RECENT BRIDE HONORED

The beautifully decorated home of Mrs. Earl Starnes was the setting for the tea and shower from four to seven o'clock Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 8th, complimenting Mrs. William Henry Hubble, who before her recent marriage was Miss Nora Ann Bendele. Pink roses and lavender senia adorned the reception suite while in the dining room the tea table was laid with a hand-crocheted cloth and centered with an attractive console arrangement of crystal holding white chrysanthemums and pink queen's crown and lighted white tapers. A similar arrangement graced the buffet.

Receiving with the honoree and Mrs. Starnes was the former's mother, Mrs. Nora Bendele. Hostesses were all former classmates of the bride and included Misses Jean Warden, Jonelle Gaines, Bonita Speece, Frances Ellen Woolls, Laura Lee Leinweber, Norma Jane Bless, Dolly Taylor, Mildred Van Fleet, Frances Van Fleet, Gladys Schwartzing and Shirley Haby and Mrs. Felix Billings.

The hostesses alternated in presiding over the tea table and the pretty heart-shaped bride's book. Refreshments were chicken sandwiches, ice box cookies and spiced tea.

The honoree and the members of the house party wore street dresses, and all wore corsages of white chrysanthemums and pink queen's crown except Mrs. Hubble, whose flowers were white chrysanthemums, and Mrs. Bendele, who wore pink dahlias. Many handsome and practical gifts were received by the bride from her many friends who called during the afternoon.

BOY SCOUTS ENTERTAINED WITH HAMBURGER SUPPER

Cook, Harry Mueller, Roy Carter, Garland Martin, Buddy Garber, Clyde Johnson, Bobby Kollman, Willie Gene Williams, Charles Monkhous, Blanton Taylor, Arthur Dawson and Arthur Brucks.

The troop has been re-organized into two new patrols. Jim Amberson is Fox Patrol leader and August J. Cook is Beaver Patrol leader. Bobby Kollman is Senior Patrol leader and Clyde Johnson is Troop Scribe. Blanton Taylor is the newest member, having joined at this meeting. Plans are under way for a busy year for the Troop, which is working under a budget system, and dues are paid to help defray expenses.

This week, October 6-12 inclusive, is Fire Prevention Week all over the United States. Here in Hondo, Fire Chief L. A. The fire company is always ready to serve, but as Mr. Mechler says, "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" when it comes to fire prevention and safety.

McNary's Views On Farm Problem

American Market and Parity Price for Farm Products Will Be Party Goal.

A promise to the farmer that he will be assured of the American market for his products was made in an address delivered at Aurora, Illinois, by Senator Charles L. McNary, Republican candidate for Vice-President, and co-author of the McNary-Haugen bill.

Senator McNary

Senator McNary said the Republican administration under Wendell Willkie "will further, and by every means, seek to enlarge the American market for farm products—both by improving the consuming power of city consumers and also by encouraging the industrial uses of farm raw materials. Thirdly, it will search for a formula for freeing the American farm price from the vagaries of foreign markets; putting the farmer on the same footing with other American producers, who sell at the American—not the world—price."

Senator McNary's speech sounded the keynote of the Republican campaign on the farm problem. He criticized the woeful failure of the New Deal to solve the farm problem in a permanent and effective manner. He said, "Actually, the basic farm problem is no nearer solution today than it was on March 4th, 1933. The New Deal has reached none of its fundamental objectives. Its farm program is a thing of shreds and patches; settling nothing; merely putting off the day of reckoning. If I did not believe that the New Deal's 'success' could be enormously bettered, I should not—as a farmer and a friend of the farmer—be standing before you today. If I thought that the best the Government of the United States had to offer the farmer was regimented subsistence and a permanent state of disparity, then I should despair for my country."

The speaker endorsed heartily the statement, made on several occasions by Mr. Willkie, to the effect that the present form of the farm program would be continued until something better can be developed. He said, "I know of no one who advocates withholding from the farmer the grants he now has—soil conservation, parity payments, crop loans, and other benefits—until the prolonged emergency is past and the farmer no longer is at a disadvantage. I have many farmer friends who are gravely concerned over the deficits which these benefits—together with all the New Deal's expenditures—are piling up for deferred payment. The farm population will pay its full share in meeting these bills. Furthermore, the administration of these vast paternalistic enterprises leaves much to be desired. The inevitable faults of bureaucracy—red tape, favoritism, confusion and delay—plague these enterprises. They should be decentralized. Costs should be reduced."

His direct statement giving his view on the relative merits of the New Deal administration of the farm program and the Republican policy was as follows: "The New Deal, satisfied with its farm program, sees the aggregate improvement it has been able to make in the farmer's lot a maximum aim. I see it as a minimum. I accept that program only as a stopgap substitute for something better until something better can be provided. And I assert, in full confidence, that the next administration will be able to provide something better."

In further explanation of the difference between the New Deal accomplishments and the aggressive Republican policy on the farm problem Senator McNary declared, "An administration worth its salt will strive for parity prices—not parity payments. It will seek to make our surpluses a blessing and not a curse."

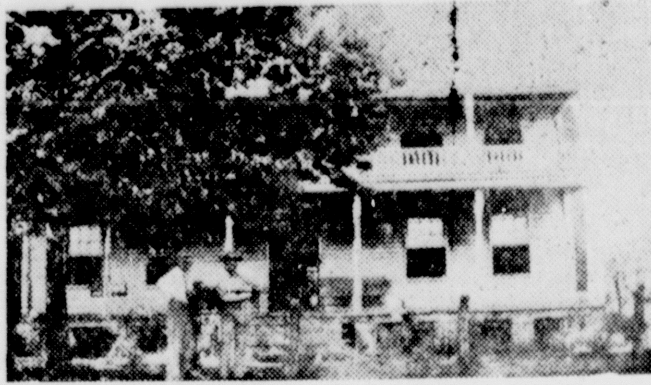

Regarding the results of the New Deal farm program, the candidate said, "Surrounded by mountainous surpluses, or reserves, the farmer has been frozen into a dependence on the government. The New Deal, as everyone knows, did not invent the farm problem. Its offense lies in the fact that, finding agriculture ill of a functional disorder, it made the disorder chronic.

He continued, "Secretary Wallace has renamed the agricultural surpluses. You will, of course, recall that the great gluts of wheat, corn and cotton that still plague the New Deal began as plain surpluses. Then, in 1938, Mr. Wallace changed the name, but not the substance, to the 'ever-normal granary'—a condition which if not checked, seems on the way to providing ever-normal poverty for the farmer."

Memories of The Civil War

By Margaret
Lockhart

THE OLD TAVERN

The above Old Tavern picture was made in the summer of 1939, and the building is still standing. Around this building the accompanying human interest story was written by the editor's only living aunt, the widow of his mother's brother. Mrs. Lockhart is nearing her 90th year and is one of the remaining very few with personal recollections of the dark days of the War Between the States.

The photograph was snapped by the editor's niece, Mrs. Ross Doty of Memphis, Tenn., while the editor and a boyhood friend, Robert Lee Persons, conversed across the fence. The property has belonged for many years to members of the Persons family. Many of the editor's own boyhood memories, of a much later date and far less thrilling than those related in the story, also cling round this old landmark.

hearts were almost sickened with the sight and groans of the wounded. Child that I was, I helped mother prepare food, all that we had in the house, for our soldiers who were camped near. Then they brought in more food for they were very hungry and we were glad to cook for them. My mother seemed almost a mother to all of them.

One young boy missed his brother and came to the door and asked to be permitted to look for him among the wounded. He went in softly calling, "John! John! John!" I could bear no more then and crept to the narrow stairway which had been my refuge to shut out the sounds and gave vent to my long pent up grief.

They left quite early next morning taking all but two who could not be moved. Mother kept them two months or longer, with some help from our neighbors who were glad to aid her. There were two doctors too old for war who helped look after them, and also two boys too young to go to war who were a great help many times. Whenever the Federals would come to search the house, mother would show them the wounded soldiers' room, whispering to them to be quiet please and they were. As soon as the boys could be moved, their wives came after them in good old steady ox wagons, for there were no horses then able to travel any distance and the oxen carried them safely home down in Dixie.

Once pickets in grey were stationed north of our home on the road leading to the enemy's camp and south to Holly Springs where our soldiers were stationed. I was in the garden beside that road when I heard guns firing and flying feet of horses bearing riders in grey pursued by blue coats, coming nearer and nearer going south. The dust was thick but, childlike, I saw everything. A boy in grey turned a corner quickly and fell from his horse, hurt but able to crawl to the ruins of a large building opposite our back yard and hide until they had passed on. I lost no time in telling mother about this and watched as she hurriedly crossed the street and helped him into the back room up the narrow stairway and up another stairway into our attic, then into a cubby hole with an old fire screen before it with cast off things carelessly hung across to conceal the opening. The blue coats were not long coming back, having gone as far as they dared, and stopped to ask mother if she had seen a Rebel fall from his horse. She replied, "No, I did not see a Rebel fall from his horse," which was true for he was the one who saw it, and I was careful to remain very quiet. Of course, they had to search the house, as usual, and went up the stairways to the attic. After thoroughly satisfying themselves that there was no Rebel in our house, they thought best not to tarry and quickly moved on so the boy was saved. His comrades came back after him, leading his horse which had followed them, and with difficulty got the boy through that cubby hole into which mother had so quickly thrust him. After a time he came back and thanked mother for helping him.

Although my mother had worked hard for the South all during the war, near the close she lost her son on the battle on Missionary Ridge near Knoxville, Tenn. He, with the small remnant left of Co. F, was captured. Being standard bearer, he bore the flag from its staff and put it in his bosom, thinking to escape, but, this being impossible, he was captured and carried to Rock Island, Ill., prison where he took smallpox and was placed in the pesthouse; later when he was considered better again was cast into prison where he died Feb. 5, 1864. This was a hard blow for us and in vain we hoped it was a mistake and that he would come home to us again with the few who had been spared in his company but it was all too true he was never to return.

The old town stands now as it was left after the invasion. It could not grow and almost seems a living tomb of what once was an attractive little town. The old Tavern seems to me a monument in memory of my mother, recording her wonderful strength, courage and fortitude to do the things that others dared not do. Why should she fear? Had she no lost all? Nothing left but her young children, herself, and her duty to humanity.

After the war was over we left the old Tavern and I have nothing worth recording except to tell we saw the first Ku Klux Klan that marched through the town mounted on white horses, marching with muffled feet, silently, slowly, all white, very tall, as they sat on their horses, calling for water, water and seemed to drink gallons, so thirsty they were. Their intentions were good and they did good, I think, in those days.

Many years have passed since then. Our boys in grey have grown old and most of them have heard the last call, my children's father with them to join Company F, 17 Regiment, Miss. Vol. Infantry, their soldier brothers they loved so well 'til death. I, too, have grown old. Years have dimmed my eyes and bleached my once brown hair to almost snowy whiteness and I am not so fleetfooted as I was in days of yore, yet I remember the Civil war as vividly as if it were yesterday and am writing this for my children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren as a true story I cannot forget.

"I believe that the Federal government has a responsibility to equalize the lot of the farmer with that of the manufacturer. If this cannot be done by parity prices, other means must be found—with the least possible regimentation of the farmer's affairs."

Would Not Pay for New Deal

In the calendar year 1933 the total income of all persons receiving $5,000 and over was $5,528,000,000. If all such income had been confiscated, it would have failed by one billion dollars to pay the Federal expenditures of 1933. It would not be sufficient by $2,600,000,000 to pay the Federal expenditures of 1933.

Did Not Work

That New Deal reciprocal trade agreements did not attract buyers is shown by the purchase, by countries with which these agreements were made, of meat products to the value of 17,644,000 pounds in 1937, before the agreements were made, and only 15,175,000 pounds in 1938, when all agreements were in effect.

MY HILL

I have a hill—
A friendly hill,
A hill that welcomes my approach
When the golden sun bows down its head To pray for eventide.

And when Mother Earth is clothed In morning's delicate finery, Her veil of sheerest dew Glimmering in the sun—
It beckons me.

Whenever I feel depressed
And my heart cries out in pain, I seek my hill
Where lucid peace uplifts my soul And comforts me.

—MABEL SKEEN.

WITH THOUGHTLESS WAND.

I saw the one she thought I was Rise between us gaunt and gray.
She had created that from me And thrown the best of me away.
And that discarded better me She might have kept her whole life long Goes wrapped in gray when she is near Concealing radiance and song.

REPUBLICAN NOMINEE STAYS ON JOB

SENATOR CHARLES L. McNARY Candidate for Vice President

Mrs. Willkie—Next First Lady

One day, twenty-three years ago, the librarian in Rushville, Indiana, was talking to her young assistant about a tousel-haired young lawyer.

"Marry that young man," advised Miss Mary Sleeth, the librarian. "He's going places."

The girl in the case had already made up her mind to do that. Her name was Miss Edith Willk. The young lawyer was Wendell L. Willkie.

From the very start Miss Willk's young man went places vigorously. Even though a blizzard, subzero weather and snow-clogged roads delayed the groom and the wedding. Wendell Willkie got there just the same—frozen bridal bouquet and all. It was January 14, 1918. Shortly afterward Wendell Willkie, already in the Army, left for France.

"Wendell Willkie has never let me down and that's the best recommendation I can give him," she says simply.

After Wendell Willkie had received the Republican nomination, a delegate remarked: "you've got the best man in the field."

"I have not," Mrs. Willkie countered, pleasantly, but firmly. "I have the best man in the world."

What has the great honor accorded her husband meant to this delightful, diminutive (she's only five feet, two, and weighs only about 110 pounds) Indiana woman? Has it frightened her? Inspired her? Probably both.

If her husband wants and hopes to be President, it's pretty breath-taking, of course, but she is equal to the challenge. "I believe it's a woman's job to adjust herself to her husband's way of living and help him do what he wants," is her philosophy of marriage.

MRS. WENDELL WILLKIE

Mrs. Willkie's blue eyes are friendly, her manner warm and sincere. Her reserve has a practical basis—she is safeguarding her husband's interests. So she speaks carefully, choosing her words thoughtfully. She has never made a speech in her life and hopes she won't have to.

Her world revolves around her husband, her son, Philip, now 22 years old, and her home, a cheerful New York City apartment where the family has lived for eleven years. Bookcases fill every available space in the apartment.

Her husband's pet name for her is "Billy."

Some call Wendell Willkie "Win"—a happy omen for another home address for Mrs. Wendell Willkie, 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue, Washington, D. C.

Washington
Snapshots
by JAMES PRESTON

The opinions here expressed are Preston's own and not necessarily those of this paper.—M. E.

When possible economies in government are mentioned to the average Washington advocate of spending, the usual answer is in the form of a question that is supposed to be "All right," the spend-without-theorist says, "just where do you economize? Just what essential services of government would be eliminated?"

This leaves out of account the fact that nobody has mentioned cutting entire services. The primary aim, actually, is careful economy in each individual case. Thousands of the bureaucrats would sneer at the idea of adding up a pretty monumental

There is a case in point:
According to the Congressional Record appended to cost the taxpayers of nation about $50 a page. Anyone who has read the Record knows that Congressmen frequently use it as a padding-board for their political speeches or for their own personal business.

Recently someone took the trouble to check up on the amount of space in a single day by members of the parties to air campaign views one kind or another, and found that it cost the taxpayers $837.50 in issue alone. Suppose there have been a hundred issues of the Record —a conservative estimate —it would mean $83,750 annually.
That is not a huge amount as political money goes these days, but it would be a lot of wages and buy a lot of things.

—WSS—Washington's inside planners may have been making newspaper editions frequently, but they are as careless as termites behind the scenes.
They now are working on a new radio program for twenty BILlion dollars—the biggest yet. That is nearly half the present debt of $44 billion.

Their idea is that they will borrow the money from the people and lend it on to the people. They say they can't go broke borrowing money.

Other economists say they overlook the fact that if a broke member of the family borrows all the money to borrow against, then considering what he will earn in the future the point must some day be reached when the planners proceed. In the past 10 years they have boosted the national debt from $16 billion to $44 billion. They are now talking about adding it to $75 billion. They figure that if they talk about it enough, they will get the people used to it.

WAGONS WESTWARD—Friday and Saturday, western film in which Chester Morris enacts the role of a cowboy. One is bad, the other out to save the family name. Number one is trapped and number two sets out to get the rest of the renegades his brother is associated with. In due time this is done, but not before many dramatic moments unfold with a good measure of excitement. The cast includes Buck Jones, Anita Louise, Ona Munson and George Hayes.

"PRIDE AND PREJUDICE"— Sunday and Monday, costume comedy that deals with a mother who has five marriageable daughters on her hands and her determination, apparently drawn short only of blackmail or worse, to get them wedded. A notable cast includes Greer Garson, Laurence Olivier, Mary Boland, Edna May Oliver, Edmund Gwenn, Maureen O'Sullivan, and Ann Rutherford, and others.

"MARYLAND"—Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, drama of gentle folk and thoroughbred horses, filmed in Technicolor. The story concerns an enthusiastic horsewoman who forsakes the sport when her husband is thrown and killed, but is re-won when her son rides the winner in the big race. The cast includes Walter Brennan, Fay Bainter, Brenda Joyce, John Payne, Charlie Ruggles, Hattie McDaniel and Marjorie Weaver.

Furthermore, the appropriation and authorization of some $15 billion for national defense has met with public approval, because the nation wants to be defended. The new $20 billion will also be "national defense".

Meanwhile, the planners gloss over some essential facts. One is that Congress is now putting the finishing touches on its tenth tax bill in the last nine years, and there will be an eleventh next year. This means that since most tax bills pass about mid-year, and apply to that year's income, nobody can plan more than six months ahead. This year there will be about three months to plan what should have been done the previous nine months.

Another overlooked factor is that spending money on tanks and tractors and guns is not productive.
When the tank is completed, the flow of money stops there. The tank is not designed to produce but to destroy.

If the same money were spent on a tractor, that tractor would pull plows and cultivators which would produce farm goods. These goods in turn would feed the hungry and provide jobs in factories and stores.

That won't be talked about much because it isn't a good spend-lend "national defense" argument.
Some folks in Washington wonder whether the planners had anything to do with a constitutional amendment to be voted on in Colorado in November. This amendment would, in effect, put a 1 per cent tax on borrowed money.

In other words, the man who was forced to borrow to buy a house or for any other purpose would pay a 1 per cent penalty tax for the privilege of being in debt.

That sounds like some Washington schemes anyhow.

Wallace Wrong Again!

Democratic Vice-Presidential Candidate Henry Wallace in his Acceptance speech asserted that during the seven years that President Roosevelt has been in office farm incomes "have been more than doubled." Like so many New Deal statements, that one simply is not true.

Figures supplied by the United States Agricultural Department show that cash income from farm mar-ketings in 1933, the year in which Mr. Roosevelt became President, totaled $5,278,000,000 and that in 1939, the last full year for which we have a report, they were $7,625,000,000.
This is an increase, to be sure, but it is NOT MORE THAN DOUBLE.

Of course, it is never fair to compare one year against another unless account is taken of all circumstances. A fair basis of comparison is that of the full seven years of the New Deal and the seven previous years. What does that show in the case of farm income?

Cash farm income for the seven Republican years preceding the New Deal—including the worst years of the depression—averaged $9,046,000, 000 a year. The average annual total for the New Deal seven-year period was $7,247,000,000. Annual average income per farm for the 1926-32 period was $1,432 compared with $1,062 for the 1933-39 period. Average annual income per farm person for the Republican period was $298 compared with $228 for the New Deal years. The figures for the New Deal years include benefit payments from the Federal Government.

It is no wonder Henry Wallace devoted most of his speech to the foreign situation!

New Deal Drops in Exports
In the depression year of 1932 exports of American products had a value of $752,000,000. In 1939 agricultural exports had a value of $683, 000,000.

A Big Check
For not growing sugar cane one Puerto Rico producer was paid $961,000 by the Roosevelt administration.

THIS IS YOUR NEWSPAPER

By Ernest Thorp
GASTONIA, N. C., Oct. 2.—This has been selected as "Newspaper Week." Ain't an old newspaper man supposed to say sumthin' when such a time as that comes around? And, what'm I gonta say, what the heck can a fellow say about a newspaper anyway? Well, I'll put a few things down, leave thousands upon thousands of tons of newspaper for others to put more down, about what could be said of "YOUR NEWSPAPER".

Your newspaper is the most common thing in your daily life, you see them everywhere, everyday. Early in the morning you hear a thump on your front porch and you know what it is, you don't even stop to dress, you just ease the door open, take a peek up and down the street, then sneak up and pounce on it, you read the headlines even before you wash face and behind your ears. Or, if you have to get yer vittals at a restaurant, you will find one 'er two there, but try and get one of 'em, some one beat you to 'em, an' so you wait till the guy next to you lays it down; he does, but he puts his whole arm on it to anchor it while he puts salt and pepper on his eggs, then he takes another gander, this time at the funny section and you know then, that he is almost ready to let 'er go, and he is, he passes it over to the guy who just came in and took a place on the other side of him, and he says "thanks", I just dropped in for a cup of java and read the paper, and you know then that he won't turn that sheet loose for a half hour, and you say to yourself, "why'n hell didn't I spend a jit and get one of me own?"

Yep, people all over the world are doing just that every day and dang few of them ever think of what it takes to get that newspaper to you on time every morning and evening and your weekly newspaper just when you expect it every week, and wouldn't the poor newspaper catch hell if it ever dared to show up late?

Many people form their own opinion of a newspaperman or woman.
Some will tell you positively that the guys and gals who go out and get the dope that make the headlines over war news, murders, scandals and everything that catches the reader's eye, are hard-boiled, hard drinkin', cussin' babies who don't care a dang for the feelings of others and in just one paragraph lay bare the skeleton in the closet, or fearlessly corner a desperate bandit. Them's the reporters, a hard lot, "think them thinkers" that sometimes don't care what they think. But still you read your daily and weekly news, but never give a thought of the hardships, risk and hard work it takes to get out of a newspaper, of men gambling their lives in war-torn lands, lying with the dead and dying in bomb holes, just to translate the facts of passion and fury, news that's news, dripping with blood and tears that you, in your comfort and security, may read and wonder how the hell they do it. Yep, the boys in the press room, the composing room, the stereotype room and in every other of the many departments, ain't no angels sproutin' wings and ever once in awhile one of 'em may cuss and I never hearn' tell of one of them belonging to Carrie Nation's Union but they are the ones who fix the dope that them prowl-in' hard-drinkin' reporters send in. "But tho' a few of them may kill a bottled reptile occasionally to ward off the flu, or even for the sake of sociability, they ain't tough guys and gals by a long shot." I ain't boastin' 'er beefin' but I'm just giving you the low-down on the most loyal of all careers—that of the "fourth estate".

Never was there, or will there be, a more alluring job than diggin' up the true dope and talkin' to ya' about it.
We like humans even better than we do ourselves, and we'll go to hell for a good, true story and see it smeared all over the front page with pictures to prove it, and many a good reporter has died for his dear public.
A good reporter tries his damndest to keep one jump ahead of his contemporaries, and he has to get that story right. They are the explorers and crusaders of a bewildered world.
They analyze conditions, start campaigns, hear confessions, determine the trend of history and give you the low-down about rotten politics, New Deal, Democracy, Republican-Democracy and hash Democracy," they you, folks, I be danged if I wouldn't right ovr and pay that there one-six-bits and get both papers, and tell Mr.

Davis that yer danged if you knew your very best friend; it can and will must be printed; it's the people's

D'HANIS BEATS CAMP WOOD 40-0 IN CONFERENCE GAME

The D'Hanis Cowboys came back with a bang last week, after having suffered an 18-12 defeat the previous week at the hands of the Dilley Wolves, to beat Camp Wood 40-0, at Camp Wood. The Cowboys showed the effects of a week's work of intensive blocking and tackling; the department in which they were sorely lacking in the Dilley game. The Cowboys showed marked improvement on both pass offense and pass defense. Buddy Biry scored one touchdown and sparked the entire offense with his hard running and fine generalship. Laurence Huser scored two touchdowns on completed passes, Jimmie Zinsmeyer scored one on a flicker pass, Victor Boog scored on a completed pass, James Wolff scored six points by the ground route, and Buddy Biry kicked two extra points. The Cowboys take to the road again this week when they play Big Wells at Big Wells in a non-conference game. The Cowboys are looking for a game for October 18, and would very much appreciate any information anyone may be able to furnish as to a prospective opponent for that day.

SHOWER TEA COMPLIMENTS MISS WYATT

On Thursday afternoon, October 3, the home of Mrs. A. J. Boog was the scene of a lovely tea and miscellaneous shower given in honor of Miss Billye Wyatt of Uvalde, bride-elect of John Tondre.

Mrs. Boog, who headed the receiving line, wore dusty rose lace with a corsage of cream and orchid asters. Miss Wyatt was attired in a formal gown of black moire taffeta with a shoulder corsage of orchid and white asters. Her mother, Mrs. W. J. Wyatt, wore pink rosebuds on her print dress, and her fiancée's mother, Mrs. O. W. Tondre, was in plum colored crepe with a corsage of white zinnias.

Miss Barbara Boog, in American beauty moire, was in charge of the brides' book, and Miss Mary Belle Carle, in the gift room, wore pink moire, both their corsages being of asters.

In the dining room the lace-covered tea table had for its centerpiece a low arrangement of pink queen's wreath and white candles. Mrs. Hermann Fohn, wearing a peach chiffon frock with navy blue lace bolero, alternated in serving cake with Miss Gladys Rieber, who was in peach satin. Their corsages were of asters. Mrs. Charles Tondre poured coffee. Her gown of purple taffeta had a corsage of white zinnias. Refreshments of open face sandwiches, green cake hearts, salted nuts, and coffee were served to about 100 guests.

Other hostesses were Mrs. Ed Finger, Mrs. John Rieber, Mrs. Joe Mueller, Mrs. Henry Poerner, Mrs. Lawrence Carle, and Miss Georgia Mae Muennink.

During the afternoon little Miss Carmen Boog sang several solos. She was accompanied on the piano by Miss Eleanor Mae Lindstrom.

TONDRE-WYATT WEDDING AT UVALDE

Miss Billye Wyatt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Wyatt of Uvalde, became the bride of Mr. John Tondre, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Tondre of D'Hanis, at 9 o'clock A. M. on Monday, October 7, 1940, in St. Mary's Catholic Church at Uvalde. Reverend Lyons, O. M. L., officiated at the ceremony and read the Nuptial Mass.

White lilies, feverfew, and ferns were used to decorate the church. While Miss Cornelia Koch played the Bridal Chorus from "Lohengrin", the bride and groom entered in the following order: the matron of honor, Mrs. Eldon Johnson of Uvalde, sister of the bride; the maid of honor, Miss Mary Belle Carle, cousin of the bridegroom; and the bride with her father. They were met at the sanctuary by the bridegroom and his cousin, Edward Finger, who was best man.

The bride was attractive in her suit of raspberry wool with fox fur trim and black accessories. She wore a shoulder corsage of stephanotis. Mrs. Johnson's suit was of aqua blue wool, her corsage was of purple chrysanthemums, and her accessories were black. Miss Carle wore a frock of wine-colored wool. Her accessories were black and her corsage was of pink carnations. The bridegroom and best man wore white boutonnieres with their dark suits. At the Offertory of the Mass Mrs. Wilfred Fohn, Miss Ethel Rothe, and Miss Lillian Fohn sang "Ave Maria" by Wiegand, accompanied on the organ by Miss Koch, who played for the recessional Mendelssohn's "Wedding March".

After the ceremony a reception was held in the home of the bridegroom's parents at D'Hanis. At noon a luncheon was served to about 75 guests. The table was decorated with pink queen's crown and fern. On another table stood the bride's cake. High was a round tiered confection of white and surmounted with a miniature bride and groom. The bride of honor served the cake after it had been cut by the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Tondre left during the afternoon for a honeymoon trip to Roswell, New Mexico. After October 14 they will be at home at D'Hanis where he is employed and where both have many friends in the younger set.

The farmer drives afield his team. Once more to break the matted turf. These Autumn days, for what might come. While Winter leans upon his staff.

I break up the soil of my heart, Tho' Winters season is ahead; And time of sorrowing, distant, yet Who plows or sows must wait on God.

Rail forwardings of poultry—26 cars—were 80 per cent above the comparable month last year, and 68 cars of eggs left the state as compared with 33 cars in July, 1939. The poultry movement was made up of 30 cars of chickens and six cars of turkeys, compared to 20 cars of chickens and none of turkeys a year ago. —AAT—

YANCEY CHECKS CASTROVILLE'S WINS

The Yancey high school Tigers man football team defeated the Castroville Comets Friday by a score of 25 to 13.

The Comets started off the game by scoring in the first quarter. Geiger, the right hand passer, shot a long pass to Captain Weiblen for a touchdown. The try for the extra point failed.

The Tigers came back strong and made a touchdown within the next few plays.

At the end of the third quarter the Comets had the game in the bag with a score of 13 to 12 but luck kept with the Tigers scored twice in the next quarter.

Kenneth Hans led the Comets defense followed by Norbert Ahr. These two boys showed the powerful tackling of the Comets. Horace Geiger did his best at passing and Captain Weiblen made very good yardage at end runs.

The Comets have not given up. With a hard week's practice they will be ready for Poth High School Friday. The game will start at 3:10 P. M. at Castroville.
